Vail v. Workers Compensation Board of Prince Edward Island 2011 PESC 6.

In considering whether a statement of claim discloses a reasonable cause of action, the court may answer a question of law and consider whether the question has been finally determined by a previous and binding decision. Also, where a claim asserts conclusions without a legal basis, it could be struck as being frivolous or vexatious.

Kelly v. Canada (Attorney General) 2010 PECA 17; [2010] P.E.I.J. No. 44; (2010), 301 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 317.

The determination of the applicable limitation period is a question of law that can be determined on a motion to strike a statement of claim as disclosing no reasonable cause of action.

McGowan v. Bank of Nova Scotia 2010 PESC 17; [2010] P.E.I.J. No. 13; (2010), 296 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 321.

On a motion for the determination of a question of law before trial, the statement of claim was struck out because it did not disclose a reasonable cause of action. The statement of claim disclosed a derivative action on behalf of shareholders, an action which, in this jurisdiction, is not founded in law.

Kelly v. Canada (Attorney General) 2009 PESC 41; [2009] P.E.I.J. No. 67; (2009), 294 Nfld & P.E.I.R.

Motions were brought to determine a legal issue before trial and to strike out and dismiss the plaintiff's statement of claim. The statement of claim was dismissed because the action was barred by the Statute of Limitations. The court also found that aside from the action being out of time, the statement of claim did not disclose a reasonable cause of action.

McQuaid v. A.G. (Canada) & Ors. 2009 PESC 40

The Court considered a motion to strike a statement of claim under Rule 21 and Rule 25. The motions judge explained the circumstances when each is applicable. The motion to strike the statement of claim pursuant to Rule 21 was denied. With respect to the motion to strike the statement of claim pursuant to Rule 25, the motions judge found deficiencies in the pleading. Instead of striking the statement of claim, he granted the plaintiff leave to amend.

Cairns v. Eastern School District 2009 PESC 3; [2009] P.E.I.J. No. 4; (1009), 72 C.C.E.L. (3d) 129

The motions judge considered a motion pursuant to Rule 21.02(3)(a) to determine, before trial, whether the court had jurisdiction over the subject matter of the action. The motions judge ruled on two preliminary procedural issues finding, first, that evidence is admissible on hearing such a motion, and secondly, that while facts as pleaded in the statement of claim are not accepted as true on such a motion, they should be considered to determine if the issue on the motion turns on easily ascertainable facts. The motions judge concluded jurisdiction over the action was in the grievance/arbitration procedure contained in a collective agreement and not with the court.

Cooper v. Charlottetown (City) 2008 PESCTD 38; 2008 P.E.I.J. No. 42

The court granted the defendant's motion pursuant to Rule 21.01(1)(b) to strike the plaintiff's statement of claim as disclosing no reasonable cause of action.

Mullin v. PricewaterhouseCoopers 2007 PESCTD 33; [2007] P.E.I.J. No. 47

The defendant made a motion for the determination of a question of law prior to trial. The court denied the motion because relevant facts were in dispute.

HZPC Americas v. True North and Ors. 2007 PESCTD 23

The court dismissed the defendants' motion to strike out the plaintiff's statement of claim as disclosing no reasonable cause of action.

BMO v. City of Charlottetown 2006 PESCAD 26; (2006), 262 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 155

The Court of Appeal made an order dismissing the statement of claim because it did not disclose a reasonable cause of action.

R.D. Financial v. Lapegna and ors. 2005 PESCTD 43

The applicants applied to strike the statement of claim pursuant to Rule 21.01(1)(b) as disclosing no reasonable cause of action and pursuant to Rule 21.02(3)(d) as being frivolous or vexatious or otherwise an abuse of the process of the court. The Court found, applying the plain and obvious test, that the statement of claim disclosed a reasonable cause of action and that it was not an abuse of the process of the court.

Kloosterman v. Grimme 2005 PESCTD 46; (2005), 251 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 300

The applicant applied pursuant to Rule 21.01(1)(a) to have a question of law determined by the court. The motion was denied. The court held that it was not the purpose of the rule to enable a party to obtain the opinion or a determination of the Court as to the validity of a contractual provision on submissions without evidence when there is a factual dispute.

M & M Amusement v. Govt. of P.E.I. 2005 PESCTD 50; (2005), 252 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 1

A motion brought under Rule 21.01(1)(a) to determine a question of law should not be granted where the resolution of the issues between the parties depends on a finding of fact.

Ayangma v. Govt. of P.E.I. and Ors. 2005 PESCTD 25; (2005), 249 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 34

A motion to strike a pleading under Rule 21.01(1)(b) as disclosing no reasonable cause of action, and a motion to strike a pleading under Rule 21.01(3)(d) or 25.11 as being vexatious, frivolous, an abuse of the process of the court or because it may prejudice or delay the fair trial of the action, requires different standards in the disposition because the consequences are different. On a motion under Rule 21.01(1)(b), some parts of the pleading may be struck while others are permitted to stand.

Ayangma v. Govt. of P.E.I. & Ors. 2005 PSCTD 25; (2005), 249 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 34

Pleadings may be struck out in their entirety for repeated violations of the Rules respecting pleadings because this renders the pleading frivolous, vexatious or an abuse of process or something which may prejudice or delay the fair trial of the action.

City of Charlottetown v. MacIssac 2003 PESCTD 07; (2003), 223 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 95

The court, on the motion of the defendant pursuant to Rule 74.01(4), agreed to apply Rule 21.01(b) to the proceeding commenced by the plaintiff in the Small Claims Section. The court went on to find that it was plain and obvious the statement of claim issued by the plaintiff disclosed no reasonable cause of action and accordingly, it was struck out pursuant to Rule 21.01(1)(b).

Gallant v. Workers' Comp. Bd.(PEI) 2002 PESCTD 71; (2002), 218 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 297

The motion by the Board to dismiss the statement of claim because it disclosed no reasonable cause of action was granted. The motion by the Board to strike the statement of claim on the ground the action was not commenced within the time prescribed by the Statute of Limitations, R.S.P.E.I. 1988 Cap. S-7, was denied. Where the application of the limitation period depends upon findings of fact for its resolution, a motion for its determination cannot be made under this Rule. Furthermore, the Board had the burden of establishing it was plain and obvious the plaintiff could not assert new facts, other than those disclosed in the pleading, that would preserve the action against an assertion that the limitation period had expired. The Court found the Board did not discharge this burden as there could be additional facts brought forward by the plaintiff to show the limitation period had not expired.

Polar Foods v. Jensen 2002 PESCTD 63; (2002), 218 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 6

The defendant's motion to stay the proceeding on the ground that the court did not have jurisdiction was dismissed. See: Annotation - Rule 46.02

Ayangma v. Wyatt 2001 PESCTD 4; (2001), 198 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 126

The plaintiff's statement of claim was struck out because it did not disclose a reasonable cause of action. The statements in the "fact" section of the statement of claim were not tied to the specific allegations previously made and the plaintiff had not set out the facts to support the requirements of the allegations of deceit, conspiracy, negligence, malice or the breach of s. 7 of the Charter.

Cameron v. Medical Society 2002 PESCTD 31; (2002), 215 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 233

The Court refused to answer a question of law because the full factual background necessary to address the question was not available at this stage of the proceeding. The court adopted the test that to answer a question of law posed as a stated case pursuant to this Rule it must be plain and obvious the issue of law raised by the question has been fully settled in our jurisprudence. When the answer to a novel question of law will affect a professional association, the input of the affected profession is very important.

The statement of claim was struck out because it did not disclose a reasonable cause of action or alternatively, as being frivolous or vexatious or otherwise an abuse of the process of the court.

On appeal, the third party notice, which had been struck out by the motions judge, was reinstated. The third party notice was not an abuse of process as it did not raise issues which had been previously adjudicated in another action in another jurisdiction.

Ayangma v. The Government of Prince Edward Island & ors. (1998), 168 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 1 (P.E.I.S.C.-T.D.)

The court considered the general principles applicable to an application to strike out a pleading pursuant to Rule 21.01(1)(b) as disclosing no reasonable cause of action. They are: (1) the pleading must disclose a cause of action in law; (2) the material facts as pleaded are to be taken as proved; (3) if the facts taken as proved disclose a cause of action with some chance of success, the action may proceed; and (4) the pleading in issue must be read as generously as possible.

Kinch v. Tignish Credit Union, [1997] 1 P.E.I.R. 455 (P.E.I.S.C.T.D.)

The plaintiff's statement of claim was struck because it did not disclose a reasonable cause of action.

Fobes v. University of Prince Edward Island, [1997] 2 P.E.I.R. 157 (P.E.I.S.C.T.D.)

Only in plain and obvious cases will a statement of claim be struck. This was one of those cases as the statement of claim did not comply with Rule 25.06(1).

Gallant et al. v. Gaudet et al (1996), 149 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 31 (P.E.I.S.C.-T.D.)

Motion brought to have the court determine, as a preliminary issue, whether plaintiffs had standing to bring the action. The court held the plaintiffs did not have standing as they had no interest in their father's estate which was the subject of the action.

Morgentaler v. P.E.I. (Minister of Health and Social Services) (1994), 117 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 181 (P.E.I.S.C.-T.D.)

Motion brought to determine standing. The status of a person to maintain judicial proceedings to question legislation is a matter for the discretion of the court, and relative to the exercise of that discretion is the nature of the legislation under attack. The onus is on the applicant to establish standing. He needs to show: (1) that he is affected by the action or application directly or that he has a genuine interest in its validity; (2) that there is no other reasonable and effective manner by which the issue may be brought before the court and; (3) that there is a serious or justiciable issue.

Pitre et al. v. MacNutt et al. (1994), 123 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 18 (P.E.I.S.C.-T.D.)

Motion to strike a statement of claim pursuant to Rule 21.01(1)(b). The test to be applied on a motion to strike a statement of claim is whether it is plain and obvious the statement of claim discloses no reasonable cause of action. In applying the test, the material facts pleaded are to be taken as proved and the statement of claim is to be read generously.

Jessaume v. Holland College, 1994, 5 C.C.E.L. (2d) 188

The defendant sought an order to strike the plaintiff's statement of claim. The court struck the statement of claim on the grounds that the subject matter of the claim had been struck in previous decision and thus the claim was res judicata. Reversed on appeal; See: Jessaume v. Holland College, [1994] 1 P.E.I.R. 364 (P.E.I.S.C.A.D.).

Johnston v. Charlottetown Area Development Corp. et al (1993), 113 Nfld. & P.E.I.R. 154 (P.E.I.S.C.-T.D.)

Motion to strike a statement of claim. A motion brought pursuant to this rule will only be granted where it is plain and obvious that a part of, or the entire statement of claim, discloses no reasonable cause of action.

Skinner v. Scales & Ghiz et al., [1992] 1 P.E.I.R. 12 (P.E.I.S.C.T.D.)

The defendant applied to strike the statement of claim pursuant to Rule 21.01 (1)(b) on the grounds it did not disclose a cause of action by reason of the fact such an action was barred by the Statute of Limitations. On an application to strike a pleading the parties may not adduce evidence but are restricted to relying on the pleadings. On the face of the pleadings it was not apparent the action was barred and the application to strike the statement of claim was dismissed.
