How Parents Can Help

Parents/Guardians are key to a child's success in the 4-H PEI program. Your interest and cooperation is a major factor in determining your child's attitude towards 4-H events & activities. Encourage your child to challenge themselves, praise them when they achieve and support them when they strive to learn more!

Your club needs your help too. Ask the club leader what they need assistance with. Helping out with the simplest tasks can make a huge difference between a positive 4-H experience and a not so positive 4-H experience:

Get to know the Program

- Familiarize yourself with the project(s) your child chooses. Remember that the leader for the project is a volunteer. They are leading this project because they want to share their skills with 4-H youth. Please be mindful of their time and the commitment they have made to your child by assisting with project work wherever you can!
- Become a leader and share your own skills or special talents - Volunteer leaders are the backbone of this organization. We look to our leaders to share their skills and knowledge with our members. They help to build better leaders while encouraging personal development in the areas of life skills and agriculture.
What would you like to share?
- Offer to lend a hand - Even if you're not a leader, anything you do to help would be appreciated. As well, clubs often need to use members' homes for general or project meetings, or for special functions. Offer your home or your great sliding hill. Of course, cookies always make a meeting better.
- Support 4-H Activities - 4-H is a family affair so, whenever possible, try to attend 4-H events & activities as a family. Not only will this help you as a parent stay in touch with the program, but will offer family time for all involved!

I have read and understand the commitment needed to support a member in the 4-H program.
