

ICMSS 2011

8th International Conference on Molluscan Shellfish Safety (ICMSS)

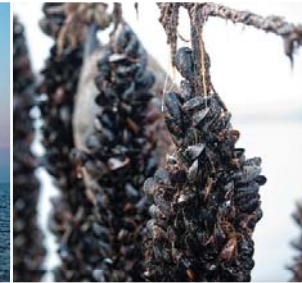

University of Prince Edward Island, Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, Canada

June 12-17, 2011

ICMSS is a world-class conference on molluscan shellfish safety that attracts renowned scientists, regulators and producers.

Experts from around the world will discuss the latest scientific advances and their impact on molluscan shellfish safety. Conference session topics will include:

- risk management and human health
- pathogenic bacteria and enteric viruses
- known and emerging phycotoxins
- novel detection methods
- impacts of climate change on pathogens and harmful algae
- petroleum and environmental contaminants
- regulation and international trade

*Prince
Edward Island*
CANADA

We look forward to seeing you in Charlottetown.

More information on the 8th International Conference on Molluscan Shellfish Safety is available in English and French at:

<http://www.gov.pe.ca/icmss2011/>

Canada