

Exercise Design 100 - (EXD 100) Self Study

Purpose:

- The Exercise Design 100 course provides an introduction to the principles of designing an exercise, an awareness of some of the challenges and benefits, and an introduction to the vocabulary used.

Content:

- Develop and manage an exercise program
- Establish the foundation of an exercise
- Design and develop a series of exercises
- Conduct an exercise
- Participate in an Exercise Evaluation
- Understand Corrective Action Plan – Identify Lessons Learned

Delivery:

- This course has been developed as a self-study course enabling participants to progress as time allows. However, participants will be asked to complete the material (which involves reading and completing self-administered, open-book, multiple-choice tests) in a designated period of time.

Who should attend?

- This course is for anyone who will participate in an exercise, or will decide whether to have and fund an exercise. It is also considered a prerequisite for the next course in the Exercise Design series.

Course Certification:

- A Certificate will be issued once participants successfully complete the self study test.

Prerequisite:

- Completion of the Basic Emergency Management Course is considered an asset.
