Section 1: Before You Apply

1.1 How Will I Pay for My Education?

Post secondary education is a big investment! It is important that you plan ahead and save to ensure that you are able finance your program of choice.

If you have been wondering how you will pay for your post-secondary education you should be aware of all of your options.

A student loan is just one of the many choices to consider when you are deciding how to pay for your program. It is a good idea to explore other financial opportunities such as employment earnings and scholarships to minimize your debt load.

Some of these other options may include the following:

- Existing funds/personal savings
- Family contributions
- Registered Education Savings Plan (RESP)
- Jobs - full/part-time work
- Bursaries and scholarships
- Co-op Programs
- Student Line of Credit/Bank loans
- Employment Insurance benefits and/or training allowances
- Pension benefits (including Canada Pension and Superannuation)
- Assets/investments (stocks, bonds, GICs, RRSPs, etc.)

Check www.studentloan.pe.ca for up to date program information and changes.

Section 2: Are You Eligible?

2.1 General Eligibility Criteria

To be eligible for a Canada and Prince Edward Island Student Loan, you must:

- be a Canadian citizen, permanent resident (landed immigrant), or Protected Person of Canada, as defined under Canadian Immigration Legislation;
- be a Prince Edward Island resident. (Generally, you are a resident if you and/or your parents, if applicable, have lived in Prince Edward Island for the last 12 consecutive months before your study period, not including time spent in post-secondary studies.) If you are unsure if you are a PEI resident click on Resident Status Section;
- be able to show that you have financial need. This means that you and/or your parents, if applicable, resources do not cover the costs of your education and living expenses while you are attending your educational institution. Allowable costs are set by the Canada Student Loan Program and the educational institution, you are attending;
- be enrolled in a degree, diploma or certificate program of at least 12 weeks in length at a designated post-secondary educational institution.
- pass a credit check if you are 22 years of age or older and applying for a student loan for the first time; and
- have successfully completed at least 60% of a full-time course load during the last year in which you had a student loan.

For full-time studies, you must meet the above general criteria and:

- be enrolled in at least 60% of a full course load. Students with permanent disabilities must be enrolled in at least 40% of a full course load.

For part-time studies, you must meet the above general criteria and:

- be enrolled in 20 to 59% of a full course load. See section 14 for details.

2.2 Successful Completion

Students must successfully complete at least 60% of a full-time course load in each study period. Students with a documented permanent disability must complete 40% of a full course load. Failure to maintain a satisfactory scholastic standard during this period will result in the loss of eligibility for financial assistance.

Before any further Student Loan funding is issued, you must provide verification that you successfully completed at least 60% of a full course load for one academic year. If your Student Loan eligibility is reinstated, all future funding will be provided on a semester by semester basis conditional on your successful academic performance.

Important: After two unsuccessful study periods, you may no longer be eligible for student loan funding.

2.3 Eligibility Limits

There are limits to the assistance you can receive from Prince Edward Island Student Financial Services.

- Number of certificates, diplomas, and degrees - Generally funding will not be provided for a second certificate, diploma, or degree, unless the first one is a prerequisite for the second.
- Length of Study - You are eligible for up to the number of years in your program of study plus one additional year. If you take less than 100% of a course load each year, you may run out of eligibility before you finish your program.
- Lifetime Limit - If you are a full-time student receiving a Canada/PEI Student Loan for the first time on or after August 1, 1995, you are eligible to receive student financial assistance for 340 weeks of post-secondary study. This may be extended for an additional 60 weeks if you are enrolled in doctoral studies. The maximum loan you can receive is $375 per week of study.
- Canada/PEI Student Loan for the first time on or after August 1, 1995, you are eligible to receive student financial assistance for 340 weeks of post-secondary study. This may be extended for an additional 60 weeks if you are enrolled in doctoral studies. The maximum loan you can receive is $375 per week of study.

Section 3: About Your Loan

3.1 PEI Student Financial Services

PEI Student Financial Services provides financial assistance on the basis of your calculated need, as determined by our office. It is important to remember that not everyone is eligible for a loan and not everyone receives the maximum amount. The financial assistance you receive is based on an assessment formula which considers the allowable educational costs and your financial resources. This assistance may be provided in the form of a student loan and/or a grant.

It is important to realize that a student loan is a financial obligation that you will have to pay back in the future. You should know how much you are receiving for a loan and also what your obligations are concerning your loan. Students are responsible for providing up-to-date contact information to the National Student Loan Service Centre (NSLSC) 1-888-815-4514, EDULINX-PEI 1-877-560-1389 and Student Financial Services (902) 368-4640.

3.2 One Application for Two Loans

PEI Student Financial Services administers both the federal and provincial student loan programs. Students complete one application for both federal and provincial loans.

3.3 Are You a Full-time Student?

Did you know that you might qualify for grant money?

You are considered a full-time student if you are enrolled at a designated post-secondary institution, in a program leading to a certificate, diploma, or degree. Your program must be at least 12 weeks long and you must be registered in at least 60% of a full course load. Students with a documented permanent disability may take a reduced course load (40%) and still be considered a full-time student.

Section 4: Full-Time Programs

Section 6: How Much Will You Need?

6.1 Let's Figure It Out

The amount of assistance you are eligible to receive is based on your assessed need, which is determined by PEI Student Financial Services. Your Allowable Expenses minus your Resources equals your Assessed Need. The amount of assistance you are eligible to receive cannot exceed the program maximum of $375 per week of study.

6.2 Your Allowable Expenses

Tuition and Student Fees - Student Financial Services verifies the information you provide with the educational institution you are attending or if attending an educational institution, outside the Atlantic Provinces, you must have the school complete and return an Academic Information Form.

Books and Supplies - Student Financial Services verifies the information you provide with your educational institution.

Return Travel Allowance - Your return travel allowance is based on the province/territory your educational institution is in. Your return travel allowance is for one full academic year.

PE	NB/NS	NL	QC	ON	MB	SK/AB/BC	YT/NT
$250	$500	$1,000	$900	$1,000	$1,100	$1,200	$1,200

Living Allowance - based on allowances provided by the federal government and your province of study. Your living allowance includes your rent, food, electricity, telephone, local transportation and miscellaneous spending.

If you are a single dependent student, and your parents live in the same city where you are attending classes, you will automatically be assessed at the "at home" costs, when determining your need.

Living allowances for single students living away from home are based on shared accommodations.

Weekly Living Allowances:

PEI Student Financial Services uses the following table, as provided by the Federal Government to calculate your living expenses. Living allowances are based on a moderate standard of living and shared accommodations, for single students and vary according to the province in which you reside while attending school.

Approximate Weekly Living Allowance by Province

Accommodations	PEI	NB	NS	NL	QC	ON	MB	SK	AB	BC
Single student living at home	$110	$105	$109	$100	$110	$113	$114	$113	$122	$119

Allowance per dependant	$114	$110	$120	$108	$121	$145	$133	$118	$134	$151

6.3 Your Resources

Paying for your post-secondary education is a shared responsibility between yourself, your family and government. If eligible, please complete this worksheet as accurately as possible so you can estimate the funding you are entitled to.

Your Student Contribution

The Pre-Study Period - Unless you are injured, ill or in full-time study, you are expected to work during your pre-study period. The pre-study period is the period of time just before the start of each session of post-secondary studies. For example, if you graduated from high school in June 2015 your pre-study period is 10 weeks if beginning post secondary studies in September 2015. If you were in university or the work force it is 18 weeks. College students are expected to work 14 weeks. You are expected to save money from your pre-study period to contribute to your educational costs.

Calculate your anticipated student contribution from your pre-study period below

Gross Income $

Your total pre-study period gross earnings from all sources.

Tax Deductions -(

Find your tax bracket based on your gross income level.

Your Gross Income	Tax Deduction	Calculation
$1 – 1,499	6.83%	(0.0683 x gross income) = B
$1,500 - $2,999	7.06%	(0.0706 x gross income) = B
$3,000 – 4,499	7.88%	(0.0788 x gross income) = B
$4,500 – 5,999	9.99%	(0.0999 x gross income) = B
$6,000 - over	12.82%	(0.1282 x gross income) = B

Student Living Allowance -(

Find your weekly living allowance on the previous page. Then multiply this amount by the number of weeks in your pre-study period.

Calculation	Weekly Living Allowance X # of weeks in pre-study period = C
-------------	--

Discretionary Income =

Your income after tax deductions and living allowances.

Calculation	A - B - C = D

Your Anticipated Student Contribution $

The amount you are expected to contribute towards your education for this academic year.

Calculation	0.80 X D = E

• Note: a minimum expected student contribution may apply.
Minimum Anticipated Student Contribution

Last Year You Were:	Your Pre-Study Period Weeks Available to Work	Your Minimum Anticipated Student Contribution
in High School	10	$1,100
in College	14	$1,550
in University/Workforce	18	$2,000

If you do not work full-time during your pre-study period you are still expected to have the minimum student contribution.

Study Period Income - Your study period is the time you are enrolled full-time in one or more semesters at a recognized post-secondary educational institution. If you work part-time during this period you are expected to report your income to Student Financial Services. You are allowed an exemption of one hundred ($100) dollars per week on your part-time earnings. All income must be reported, even the exempt amount, which will be automatically applied to your earnings.

Other Financial Resources

If you have other resources, you are expected to use them to help pay for your educational costs. These can include, but are not limited to the following...

- a) Stocks, bonds, GICs, RRSPs, RESP's, other savings, etc
- b) Employment Insurance benefits and/or training allowances
- c) Scholarships, bursaries, fellowships, awards, assistantships, stipends or sponsorships
- d) Pension benefits (including Canada Pension and Superannuation)
- e) Alimony or maintenance payments, Workers Compensation, Income Support, support payments, Indian and Northern Affairs, Band Council, Citizenship & Immigration, etc. (Check with Student Financial Services if you need further clarification.)

6.4 Expected Parental Contribution

Part of the application form deals with parental contribution. If you are a dependent student, your parents may be expected to make a contribution toward the cost of your education. The term parent refers to parent(s), common-law partners of parents, step-parent(s) or guardian(s). See Section 6 for more information on dependent student category.

If your parents are separated or divorced, the family unit in which you reside with for the majority of your time is the parent that parental financial support is received from. If the parent that supports you remarries (or lives in a common law relationship) before your 18th birthday, your step-parent or common-law parent is also financially responsible and his or her 2014 income will be included in calculating your financial need.

An expected parental contribution for a dependent student will be based on family size, level of income and the number of children attending a post-secondary institution.

Complete the following calculations to estimate the amount your parents are expected to contribute.

 Step 1 - Calculate Discretionary Income

To calculate discretionary income from the total family income use line 150 of parent(s) 2014 Income Tax and Benefits Return(s) and subtract the following:

- The total CPP and EI contributions paid (lines 308 & 312 on Schedule 1)
- The total income tax payable (line 435) and
- A moderate standard of living for P.E.I. based on family size (see table below and include all dependent children)

Total Family Income	-	Total CPP & EI Contributions	-	Total Income Tax Payable	-	Moderate Standard of Living Allowance	=	Discretionary Income
----------------------------	---	---	---	---------------------------------	---	--	---	-----------------------------

_____ - _____ - _____ - _____ = _____

PEI Moderate Standard of Living Allowance

Family Size	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Rates	$37,163	$47,246	$54,402	$59,949	$64,483	$68,315	$71,634	$74,566

* Step 2 - Calculate Expected Weekly Parental Contribution

Using your parents "Discretionary Income" figure from the previous page...

If Annual Discretionary Income is:	Weekly Parental Contribution
$0 - $7,000	(15% of Discretionary Income)/52
$7,001-$14,000	($1,050 + 20% of (Discretionary Income -$7,000))/52
$14,001 and over	($2,450 + (40% x (Discretionary Income - $14,000)))/52

Refer to the table above to determine which formula to use to find your parents expected weekly parental contribution.

* Step 3 - Calculate Expected Parental Contribution

You can now calculate the expected parental contribution by taking the weekly parental contribution, multiplying by the number of weeks in your study period and then dividing by the number of dependents in your family (include yourself and any children in post-secondary education) to find the expected parental contribution for the study period.

Weekly Parental Contribution	X	# of weeks in study period	÷	# of dependents in family (including student) who are currently attending post-secondary education	=	Expected Parental Contribution
_____	X	_____	÷	_____	=	_____

6.5 Expected Contributions for Married Students

If you are a married student, both you and your spouse are expected to make a contribution toward the cost of your education. See Section 6 for information on married or common-law student category.

Your contribution is calculated by subtracting the following allowable expenses from your annual gross family income:

- 1) Income deductions (i.e. Income Tax, Canada Pension Plan and Employment Insurance).
- 2) Weekly standard of living for student with spouse (Section 6.2)
- 3) Allowance for each dependent child. See Weekly Living Allowances in Section 6.2.
On PEI the weekly allowance per dependent child is $114.

Income verification required from the applicant's spouse: The applicant's spouse is required to verify his or her current gross (before deductions) income with a letter from his or her employer or a pay stub (income that is verified with letter or pay stub must be within the last 4 weeks).

If the applicant's spouse's gross income changes over the pre-study or study period, Student Financial Services must be notified. An example of a change in income would be if the spouse is currently receiving Employment Insurance income and he or she finds employment.

The applicant's spouse is also required to sign the Declaration and Tax Consent Form.

All applications and file materials are subject to audit and verification.

Section 10: Over-payments and Audits

10.1 Over-payment

Over-payment (or over-award) is a term used to describe an amount of loan funding you received but were not eligible for. Below are the most common reasons for receiving an over-payment.

- An increase in your resources (work term income, part-time income, etc.). Your Pre-Study Report confirms the earnings you reported on your application. Please try to estimate your summer earnings as accurately as possible.
- Your course load is less than what was originally reported on your application or you have withdrawn from full-time studies.
- If you finish earlier than originally reported on your application, you are eligible for fewer weeks of loan funding.

If you receive notification that you have received an over-payment, it is important to contact us immediately to discuss it. If your over-payment is not immediately repaid or a review requested, the overpayment will be deducted from your future student loans and will impact your eligibility for the PEI Debt Reduction Grant.

You will be notified by email if your file has been selected for audit. Failure to comply with an audit request within the specified time will eliminate your eligibility for the PEI Debt Reduction Grant, Interest Relief and potentially future loan funding.

Section 12: What Happens to My Loans While I'm In School?

12.1 Interest on Your Loan.

The Governments of Canada and PEI pay the interest on your loans while you are in school full-time. During this time you are not required to make payments on your loans. If you choose to make payments on your loans during this time, they will be applied directly against the principal.

Although you may defer your payments for 6 months, interest starts accumulating on your Canada Student Loan as soon as your study period is complete. PEI Student Loans are interest-free during your studies and for the 6-month period following full-time studies.

The current interest rate offered on variable repayment for a Canada Student Loan is Prime + 2.5%. Please check the website for current interest rates on PEI Student Loans.

12.2 Maintaining/Reinstating Your Interest-Free Status While in Full-Time Studies

* Canada Student Loans

- You must begin repayment of your Canada Student Loan six months after you cease to be a full-time student.

- If you continue your full-time studies but will not receive a new Canada Student Loan within the six-month period, you must submit a Confirmation of Enrollment form to the National Student Loan Service Centre (NSLSC) and EDULINX-PEI to let them know you are still in school. This will maintain your interest-free status and delay repayment of your loan(s).
- If you fail to submit this documentation, your lenders/service providers will expect you to start making payments. Please visit www.canlearn.ca for more information on maintaining interest-free status for Canada Student Loans and www.pei.edulinx.ca for more info regarding your PEI Student Loan Account. Be sure to provide a Confirmation of Enrollment to both the NSLSC and EDULINX-PEI.
- If you do not submit a Confirmation of Enrollment form before repayment begins, monthly payments will start to accumulate on your loan. You must make these payments, to keep your loan in good standing. If you are late submitting your form, you are responsible to pay the outstanding amount that has accumulated on you loan.

Submit to your lenders/service provider a Confirmation of Enrollment Form to maintain interest-

 PEI Student Loans

- If you continue your full-time studies but will not receive a new PEI Student Loan within the six-month period, submit a Confirmation of Enrollment form to EDULINX-PEI. More information is available at www.pei.edulinx.ca.
- When you submit this form, your interest-free and non-repayment status is maintained.

12.3 Keep in Contact with Your Lenders

Most student loan repayments are scheduled over a 10-year period.

A Loan Repayment Calculator is available online at www.canlearn.ca. Choose “Students” and under “Tools” click on the “Loan Repayment Calculator”.
