

"I was a high school basketball star. My parents were always there for me. It started in grade 9. Getting drunk was a rite of passage. This is hard ... I was trying to quit, but while on cocaine, I stole my Aunt's car and crashed it. With family support, I've been clean for 2 years. I have 2 kids under 3 and every day is a struggle not to use."

That's my story and it's real. - PEI Youth, age 20

It always starts simply and innocently enough. It can easily end in harm and/or addiction. It doesn't have to.
